And Finally...

What a lovely morning we had today welcoming our new P1 children in to see their new teachers, assistants and classrooms. Such great excitement around the school and it is heartwarming to see the children's joy when they come into school and meet their new classmates and friends. One of the best days in the school calendar. They look like they will be a fantastic year group who will relish all the adventures ahead.

Huge excitement too as the P7s put the finishing touches to their school show - Oliver Twist!! The show runs next Tuesday and Wednesday and it is so clear how much time, energy and effort they have invested into it. They had a dress rehearsal today for the other year groups and it is safe to say that it was a huge success!!! I know those attending the shows next week will thoroughly enjoy.

On a personal note I just wanted to say thank you for the welcome back I have received over the past few days. I am glad to be back and have loved catching up with all the "bizz" from the children! The children in school are like a good medicine and I'm proud of each of them.

Enjoy your weekend and thanks for all the support you give to us in St. Colman's.
